Poor students often had to do various jobs to pay money to their schools. There were not many jobs for students, and many students had to ①visit houses and sell things. Howard was one such student. He came from a poor family that couldn't support him, so a few times a week he had to go from house to house to sell things.

It was a hot summer. Howard had to study hard every day, and he was tired from the summer heat and couldn't get enough sleep at night. He was getting really tired and hungry.

②That day seemed especially difficult for him, and he couldn't sell anything, so he didn't have enough money to buy food. He was discouraged and was thinking about quitting his job, and even quitting school. It was his worst moment.

"This is the last time. I don't care what people think. If I can throw away my pride, I can do anything," Howard thought.

③He decided to ask for something to eat at the next house he visited. "Hello," a nice lady said at the door. But he lost his courage, and finally, in a weak voice, he asked, "Can I have a glass of water?" He looked hungry, but the woman thought it was rude to give him (④) when he asked for (⑤). Then she brought him a large cup of milk. Howard slowly drank the milk. The kindness of the woman filled his stomach. Howard got back his energy and asked, ⑥"So, how much should I ..."

She smiled and refused to receive any money, and Howard said to her, "Thank you so much." She wished him good luck in return, and he moved on to the next house. Just one cup of milk was enough to refresh his body and mind.

Years later, a woman was brought to the hospital with a serious disease. Dr. Kelly took care of her. He worked long and hard and gave her all the attention and care he could. The treatment he gave her was especially good, though his schedule was busy. Thanks to Dr. Kelly's treatment and care, the woman got better, and then she was ready to go home.

Dr. Kelly looked at her bill for the treatment, and then he wrote ⑦something at the bottom and sent it to her room. She was afraid to open it because she knew she couldn't pay the money. She knew that the treatment for her serious disease was very expensive, and her family didn't have a lot of money.
